SUMMARY

I have had over 13 years of application development specialized in Microsoft technology. My working experience includes software development, analysis and design, project management, production support, performance tuning. I like to learn new things which were not taught when I was in university. For example, Linq, Json and Python.

Apart from technical skill, I also enjoy having discussions with business users to find any possible solution to enhance existing operations. Understanding users resist CHANGE, I am willing to provide training and related materials to users to get familiar with the new idea.
